

MOGAMI Cable

MOGAMI Cable is in its third year of sponsoring the Traveling Guitar Foundation with donations of instrument cables. The donations go to schools where budget cuts have caused music programs to go underfunded. Traveling Guitar Foundation, with the help of sponsors like MOGAMI, provides instruments and guitar clinics to schools in order to sustain these programs and foster creativity, intellectual development and a love of music in students. MOGAMI provides cables to the Traveling Guitar Foundation for events throughout the year. The cables give students the opportunity to use quality cable to plug in their electric guitars, which are provided by other TGF sponsors.

"We are proud to be a part of the Traveling Guitar Foundation's efforts to keep music education in schools," said Phil Tennison, Product Manager at MOGAMI Cable. "As a parent of kids who participated in public school music, I understand the importance of continuing these vital programs. TGF supplies schools with solid equipment that the kids are excited to play. It's a great way to support young talent."

MOGAMI started working with the Traveling Guitar Foundation in 2010. Since then, MOGAMI has donated hundreds of instrument cables to music programs and music clinics supported by the Foundation.
